Score	Writing Ability Score	Test Date	LSAT %ile
171	N/A	12/06/2003!	98%
165	N/A	10/02/1999!	92%

Note that my percentiles are compared to students in different years. At the time I took these exams, my percentiles were 93rd in 1999 and 99th in 2003.

NOTES:

The LSAT was designed to serve law school admission functions only. It has not been validated for any other purpose.

The percentile listed reflects the percentage of test takers scoring below your score. Percentiles will not be reported for tests taken under accommodated conditions involving additional testing time on a scored section. This is due to the small number administered and the variations in accommodations.

For tests taken between:

June 1991 to date (120 - 180 score scale)
 June 1982 - February 1991 (10 - 48 score scale)
 February 1948 - February 1982 (200 - 800 score scale)

%ile is based on the scores from:

June 2008 - February 2011
 June 1988 - February 1991
 June 1977 - February 1982

Symbols that may appear in place of a score:

- * No Reportable Score - LSAC Action
- + No Reportable Data - Data Cancelled
- / No Reportable Score - Candidate Cancellation
- No Reportable Score - Absent or Score Delayed

(!) Because the Law School Admission Council reports few LSAT scores prior to 06/01/2006, there is insufficient data concerning the validity of such scores. Law schools exercise caution when using older test scores in the admission process.
